

Firefly Playpak Portable Activity Kit

- Playpak helps babies and young children develop through play
- Suitable for infants and young babies from birth to the age of 4, however suitability is very much dependant on level of physical development
- Playpak helps develop physical, cognitive, sensory and communication skills
- Mix and Match components in three key therapeutic positions, which form the basis for later abilities
- This lightweight bag contains an entire activity centre. Inside you will find rolls, wedges and supports that stick together in dozens of ways and let your child practice different developmental postures which form the building blocks for later abilities
- Playpak also comes with a handy therapy guide, featuring advice and easy-to-use instructions that show you how to use each clever little piece to create different sitting and lying positions, as well as how to perform all the recommended developmental games with your child
- Playpak is also more than just practical, it looks great too. It definitely doesn't look like therapy equipment, and won't attract any sideways glances!
