Under the ACL, where we fail to provide products or services to you in accordance with a set of basic rights, called consumer guarantees, you may have a right to seek a remedy, including a refund. You can find out more information about your ACL rights: Consumer rights and guarantees | ACCC. You can return the product to an Aidacare branch for assessment free of charge. However, where it is not feasible for you to return the product and we may need to collect the product (or arrange a physical visit) to assess the product fault, we may charge a small fee to assess the product and return the product to you (if applicable). However, if the product is subject to a valid warranty claim or ACL claim, we will refund you the full amount of any shipping / delivery fees you may have incurred with proof of such fees.
