falls prevention

Falls are more likely to occur in older people and can result in injuries such as hip and wrist fractures, dislocations, sprains, head injuries, abrasions and bruising.

The cause of falls varies depending on age, medical history, cognitive impairment, weight, gait disorders or environmental hazards to name a few.

It is important to implement preventative measures to decrease the chances of a fall, particularly for those who are identified to be at high risk.

Such measures can include installing grab rails and safety equipment in wet areas, mobility aids and hip protectors, and removing clutter and other hazardous items around clearance spaces within the home.

Do you need help with product selection and sizes? Please contact Aidacare on 1300 133 120. For Therapist Solutions please enquire about how else we can help you.
